

South Spotlight

October 15th, 2007

We are pleased that the weather has cooled down. It makes a huge difference here at school. It also should be a reminder to parents regarding proper clothing for the cool bus stop mornings and outdoor recess. You might be surprised by how many students are in shorts or short sleeves when the weather turns cold.

Tomorrow evening (Tues., 10/16) Baldwin School will be hosting a Family Math Night. This will be held from 6:30-8:00 p.m. in the Round Room. Quincy University education students will lead activities focusing on Math activities that can be done at home. Feel free to come and go as you please. Remember, all children must be accompanied by an adult. Sounds like a worthwhile evening!

It is hard to believe, but this Friday marks the end of the first quarter. Our teachers either have or will be contacting all parents to set up Parent-Teacher Conferences. Most of these should occur the week of Oct 29-Nov.2. We aim for 100% participation, so please make every effort to visit and find out how your son/daughter is doing.

Please be reminded that you don't have to wait for these conferences to visit our school. Feel free to visit at any time.

Sincerely,

Michael Hayes, Baldwin South Principal
